VARSITY HEAD AMONG SPEAKERS HERE NEXT WEEK

Dr. R. C. Wallace Principal Speaker at Teachers' Convention Nov. 1

One of the best programs arranged in years is promised for the two-day convention of the teachers of Hanna and Oyen Inspectorates to open here on Thursday morning November 1, and continuing until it is brought to a close on Friday evening with the annual ball. A notable feature of this year's convention will be the address by Dr. Wallace, President of the University of Alberta, which address will take place at the banquet in the Memorial Hall on Thursday evening.

In conversation with Inspector L. A. Thurber the Herald was informed that the attendance at this year's convention promises to be quite up to normal and in many respects the program prepared for next week's annual gathering of teachers holds more than usual interest.

The Hanna Board of Trade has appointed a special committee on entertainment and teachers will be guests of the Board and business men of Hanna at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday evening at 9 o'clock. ## DISSOLUTION OF MUNICIPALITIES IS HELD LIKELY

Representatives of Eastern Units Meet at Chinook
—Pass Resolution

With representatives of a dozen or more rural municipalities situated between here and the Saskatchewan border, attending a meeting at Chinook on Friday afternoon would appear that dissolution of these units would take place shortly. Owing to financial difficulties in these municipalities, it has been suggested that dissolution would permit the Provincial Government to render necessary assistance which can only be made available to these municipalities under direct administration by the Department of Municipal Affairs. The proposal of dissolution has been under consideration for a some weeks by the municipal councils and after the question had been given consideration from every angle, the following resolution was passed. Nine delegates voted for seven with the negative.

Be It Resolved that we accept the main proposal of the government that an administrator be appointed and the Council act in an advisory capacity until the end of 1934; providing the act be amended to permit of joint control or joint administration for the year 1935 or such time as the municipal districts be able to finance themselves. Be it further

RESOLVED that this resolution shall apply only to such districts as are unable to finance themselves, and be it further

RESOLVED that we accept this proposal under protest.
The action taken at Friday's meeting conveys the opinion that the majority of rural municipal units east of here will shortly come under an official administrator. Last week it was announced that M. D. Hand Hills No. 275 and M. D. Bertawan, Sibbald, had already come under the administration of Mr. A. Scutter. It is highly probable, therefore, that the majority of municipalities adjacent to the Goose Lake line will be disorganized within the next few days.

Junior Seed Club

The achievement day meeting of the Seed Fair of the Chinook Junior Seed growers club was held in the School on Wednesday afternoon. Two judges from the department of Agriculture were present; Mr. Walker previously of Raymond Agriculture School and Mr. Whitebread of the Vermillion School. N. D. The prizes for the threshed grain competition awarded by the Alberta Govt were paid by Mr. Marcy, the club leader.

After this several reels of pictures were shown by Mr. Walker and were enjoyed by all.

Owing to the hail on Sept. 6, five of the club members were unable to compete but seven were awarded prizes.

The winners were—
1st prize on quart and bushel Dean Tompkins
2nd prize—Jim Proudfoot on bushel and I. Machell on quart.

A few people from town attended the bridge tournament at Oyen on Wednesday evening.

Storage Dams and Irrigation Systems

(By W. C. Stirling)

There is some danger that this area will not make any concerted experiment with storage dams, in spite of all that has been said and written, and in spite of the favorable attitude of the Government. It is because of the lack of municipal leadership, or belief in the value of such work?

It might be of interest here to briefly mention some of the great irrigation systems existing on this continent and to speculate on the greater possible intensity of drought conditions in those areas, if such great storage systems were not in existence.

An arid region is one receiving less than 20 inches, annually of rainfall. A desert condition exists if rainfall is less than 10 inches.

There are 15 American States and Canadian provinces north of them that are called arid or semi-arid, whole or in part. This vast area in the United States is greater than all the countries of Europe and Japan exclusive of Russia.

These great irrigation systems of the United States have been built largely within the last 25 years.
California 4,200,000 acres irrigated
Colorado 3,350,000
Montana 1,680,000
Idaho 2,500,000
Nevada 560,000
Oregon 986,000
Washington 330,000
Wyoming 1,200,000
Utah 1,370,000
Texas 586,000

One of the greatest projects of all times is the Salt River Project, known as the Roosevelt Dam in Arizona. This dam stores 1,300,000 acre-feet of water, a supply sufficient to supply Salt River Valley for three years.

The Arrowrock Dam on the Boise River, Idaho, has a dam that rises 250 feet above bed rock, and will serve to irrigate 240,000 acres.

The Boulder Dam near the Grand Canyon on the Colorado is possibly the world's greatest dam. It will be 700 feet high, will develop 600,000 horsepower, and supply water to 4,000,000 acres.

There are several notable irrigation projects in Canada.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has three large projects in Alberta known as the Eastern, the Western and the Lethbridge.

The Bow River furnishes the water for the Eastern and the Western sections. For the Western, the water is taken near Calgary and irrigates 218,800 acres. For the Eastern, the water is taken near Bassano, at the Horse Shoe Bend where a great dam has been built which irrigates 400,000 acres.

Other notable systems in Alberta are the Canada Land and Irrigation Co. Ltd. which use Lake McGregor as a natural reservoir. The United Irrigation District and the Lethbridge Northern and about 300 lesser privately owned systems.

The most famous dam in the world is the great Assuan dam across the river Nile. It is 1 1/4 miles long, 144 feet high and is the largest structure of its kind ever built, storing Nile waters from one flood to the next and opening to cultivation over 6,000,000 acres. Surely there is ample evidence that irrigation is saving vast areas of the most fertile land upon the earth's surface. Also, there is ample evidence that central eastern Alberta, as well as other southern areas in the Province must be classified as semi-arid. Is it not wisdom then for organizations and individuals to devote great attention toward the promotion of storage dam construction and the water diversion projects which will apply water to these parched areas?

Henceforth, when public moneys are made available for the public works programs more attention might be paid to watering the land than to unnecessary improvement of roads "carrying nothing to nowhere."

The People's Responsibility

No apology need be offered to the readers of this column, we feel sure, for again discussing the same subject that formed the topic of last week's comment, namely, the ever mounting toll of deaths and serious injuries attributable to automobile accidents. The most effective way of minimizing as far as possible these tragedies is, it will be admitted, the arousing of public opinion because, unless public opinion is aroused, all the preventive laws in the world will not prove effective.

In conversation with the writer the other day a mother of a family, careful, conscientious, intelligent and of the very best type of Canadian citizenship, one who takes a keen and active interest in all movements for the betterment of the community and province in which she lives, stated that only recently she and her husband had had the narrowest of escapes from a serious and probably fatal car accident. Let us recite the simple circumstances.

Driving at a moderate rate, her husband at the wheel came to a point where the making of a left turn was necessary. He proceeded to make it. At the same moment the driver of a car behind them speeding at forty miles an hour decided to pass ahead. Without slackening speed and without sounding his horn in warning to the car ahead, he shot past, thus violating the rules of the road in at least two respects. He side-swiped the car in which the lady and her husband were driving, smashed a headlight to smithereens, tore off the front bumper, and all but wrecked the car. But, added the lady, we too, were to blame because my husband had neglected to put out his hand indicating his intention to make the left turn. Fortunately no person was hurt.

All simple things—failure to sound a horn before attempting to pass the car ahead, failure to reduce speed when overtaking and passing the car ahead, failure of the car ahead to indicate its proposed change of direction, and three lives endangered, several children narrowly escaped being orphaned, two families barely saved from lasting sorrow and much suffering. The laws were sound enough, a policeman right on the spot could not have enforced those laws in time to prevent a tragedy. Two individuals were alone responsible for placing their own lives and that of others in jeopardy. Either one of them could have avoided this near calamity.

It is probable that as these lines are being written other near-accidents of a more or less similar nature are taking place, and possibly serious injuries and even death are the result. Who is to blame? The people themselves. Nobody else. And such accidents will continue and will multiply until people by observing all laws and regulations, and through the exercise of proper caution at all times, put an end to such accidents.

In this article, too, emphasis may well be placed upon the terrible menace of "glaring headlights". They are prohibited by law, yet are to be found upon practically every road and highway every night. Glaring headlights—which blind the driver of any approaching car, making it impossible for him to judge his distance from the approaching car which has blinded him or to see what is ahead of him. And because one car has such lights burning, the other driver refuses to dim his lights, and two high powered cars flash at each other—sometimes they pass safely, sometimes they do not, and all too frequently even when a head-on crash does not result, one or both cars ends up in the ditch, or meets some other adverse fate.

The owner of the "glaring lights" is apparently quite reckless and indifferent to the fact that by blinding the driver of approaching cars he may be inviting his own death, because the blinded driver may smash into him; and when driver No. 2 refuses to dim his lights because the other fellow did not, he is only multiplying his own risks because he is blinding the other fellow. Again, who is to blame for the catastrophes which so frequently follow? Not the law, because the actions of these car drivers is unlawful. Nor can any army of policemen be maintained along every highway to enforce the law. The best that is possible is to make examples of people when they can be caught.

It is people themselves who are to blame, and it is well nigh impossible to identify the culprits because the glaring lights renders the taking of car license numbers extremely difficult. It is public opinion that must first be aroused and educated to put a stop to these violations. It is not legislators, governments and police forces which alone have responsibility in this matter; the greatest responsibility rests with the individual citizen. And until individual citizens in far greater numbers than at present discharge that responsibility, humanity must pay the price, and this terrible blot rest upon our much vaunted civilization.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost instantly. It touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Aspirin in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Takes Place Of Sails

"Autogyro Aeroplane Windmill" Is Success In Tests

A most interesting experiment, which may be attended with important results, has been tried out by Lieut.-Colonel Moore-Brabazon, M.P., noted British airman. He has constructed a boat with what is called "autogyro aeroplane windmill" to take the place of sails. The principle of the autogyro is applied to the sailing vessel; with this important difference—that the blades are fitted to the mast vertically, looking like a windmill's arms. It is reported that the method has come fully up to expectations, the boat making almost as good headway against the wind as with it, the blades being rotated by the wind from whatever quarter it blows. In a twenty-mile-an-hour wind the blades turn at 200 revolutions per minute, at which rate the tips of the blades are travelling at 200 miles per hour. Once the autogyro is rotating, there is nothing else to be done aboard but steer. Results of the experiment are now receiving the expert consideration of the Royal Aeronautical Society.—Hamilton Spectator.

Extracted Teeth For Indians During Tour Of James Bay Area

When Rev. J. Emilio Salndon went to work for the Dominion bureau of statistics, he was a competent census taker, but to-day, as a result of his official labors, he is a first-rate amateur dentist.

He was engaged by the bureau to take a census of the Indians living along the eastern shore of James Bay. But he found that wherever he went in pursuit of figures, he was met by appeals from redskins to extract their aching teeth.

At one remote spot he sat down and solemnly pulled out Indians' teeth for several hours. Altogether he made more than 100 extractions during his tour.

K. C. Banks proposed to post himself to British Columbia, and thought it advisable that he should be marked: "This way up." In the event of his deciding on air mail, and yet wishing to wear a hat, the following note on past history may be useful. Toward the end of the war a gadget was obtained for the R.A.F. which the makers marked: "To be stored upside down." The air ministry added the instruction: "To avoid confusion, the bottom should be called the top."

Recommended As Reducer

In Seventeenth Century Tea Was Supposed To Be Slimming

Tea, in the seventeenth century, was recommended as a means of slimming. In an exhibition now in the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, of English silversmiths' work is quoted an old advertisement which said that China Tea, or Tea, "plus Tre" is "of great avail to men of corpulent bodies and to such as eat meat." Apparently the ladies were not so keen on slimming in those days. Tea-drinking, anyhow, must have been rather a trial when it was first introduced into this country, for the small bowls out of which the liquid was drunk had no handles, and people were compelled to hold them by the lip or poised in their fingers.

Boys Begin Their Military Training At Early Age

Italy has started to train all boys from the age of eight years; but that is two years later than the time set in Japan where boys begin their military education at the age of six, using real rifles and machine guns but with blank cartridges at twelve years of age. Every Japanese boy imbibes the philosophy that it is a great and glorious thing to die for the emperor and for Japan. It will be remembered that Japan has evolved a new kind of submarine, guided by a man inside who steers it at a vanishingly small target, knowing that impact means not only explosion of the torpedo but death to himself; yet it is said there are more volunteers than available torpedoes.

Toronto Man Picks A Hundred Choice Samples Of Fruit From Tree

From a frail-looking banana tree left over from the Jamaica exhibition at the Canadian National Exhibition two years ago, Arthur J. Frost has picked about 100 bananas which are said to be superior in flavor to the imported fruit.

He planted the tree in his greenhouse in Toronto and early this year it reached such a height the roof had to be raised. Buds appeared in April, turned up like cobs of corn. Further developing they ripened. There are still 100 bananas, varying in degree of ripeness, on the tree.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wilderness outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Joe Carr's daughter, Edith, repulses Dustin when he wished to make her acquaintance, saying when she walked with a man, it would not be with a squaw man. He plans revenge, but has had no opportunity so far. Affairs on the ranch going from bad to worse, Joe Carr takes to drink.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER IV.—Continued

Spike gaped at him. Then very slowly realization came. His eyes gleamed and his red face got redder and his wire-stiff beard seemed to bristle like the mane of an angry horse.

"You know how these damned old fools of prospectors talk. They matters worse old Kane can square himself with Joe Carr by lettin' him in on what he found on the Hour-glass land. See now?"

never see any one to talk to in six months. When they do get a chance the dam gives way and there's a flood. If old Dad Kane goes in to Seco he'll tell about his gold-fund as sure as God made it'll apply. He can't help it. The matter of Gray and Corse is bound to come out. . . .

Still Spike stared at him. The full import of what Dustin said had not yet sunk in.

"They'll hardly dare tell what they done," he groined. "It'll mean jail for them, too."

"They'll turn State's evidence and get exemption. That's the way Burke, the Prosecutin' Attorney, wins his cases. You poor fool! Can't you see? You'll look good in a striped suit. . . . If it gets that far."

"What do you mean by that? 'If it gets that far'?"

"Huh. That's easy. We're none too popular in the Valley. There ain't a Dry Farmer in thirty miles that don't want our holdin's. If we win that suit over Soda Springs it'll throw 'em on public lands. They'll be open to all the Dry Farmers. They can winter their sheep there, too. That'll ruin 'em for cattle. Even you know that. . . ."

Spike nodded at that truth; the real reason for the constant feud between sheep and cattle-men.

"It will make no difference to you an' me," said Dustin hotly. "We'll be tucked away where nobody can hurt us. . . . I tell you. . . . We're in a hell of a mess. Old Dad Kane know now just what our men have been doin'. Those men will swear to clear themselves, that they were only carryin' out orders from us. It'll all come out. . . . To make Spike Goddard licked his lips in silence and stared at his partner with a feral glare that promised ill to his enemy. He was not a particularly strong man but like most men of his kind, when driven to bay he could fight desperately.

"Well," he croaked, "what's the answer?"

"That's easy. . . . Dustin drew a breath of relief. To plan as he had planned in the last ten minutes was one thing. But man planning devil needs help. He knew now that he could count on Spike as never before. Dustin went on:

" . . . You and me, Spike, have made too much off the Hour-glass land to let it ever get into court. Even old man Carr with all his drunken suspicions, don't know what we've milked him for. Thank the Lord we've been too careful to show the source of our income but . . . We've got a nice wad of cash right now in the office safe. Too dangerous to put it in the Seco bank. I figured we might need it for a get-away if some one spills the beans. . . . Like old Dad Kane. He can do it any minute he chooses to open his mouth and talk. The matter boils down to this. . . . Old Dad Kane has come in here with the finest ore we've ever seen. It was found on the Hour-glass lands and old man Carr doesn't know of it. While he was lookin' for that ore, old Kane found some of our men at work and can send us to jail for what he saw 'em doin'. Get me? You know what's got to be done. I needn't name it. What's the answer?"

Spike Goddard knew that answer but like his partner he dared not put it in speech. Dustin finally dared it. "Old Kane has got to show us where he found the stuff and then he's got to disappear," he said.

For a long moment silence fell; a silence in which a cricket in the wall chirped loudly and the ticking of the cheap clock on the table sounded like the crack of doom. Spike poured himself another drink. He needed it badly. He knew what he meant.

"How?" he asked hoarsely.

"The less you know personally about it the better for us both," said Dustin. "It's a one-man job and I trust no other man where my own life is at stake. All I say is that I'm not goin' to jail to please old man Kane or Carr either. Suit you?"

"It suits doos. . . ." Spike had sudden visions of himself in a striped suit and he did not admire it. "It'll help you. . . ."

"Help me hell," said Dustin fiercely. "I tell you it's a one-man job. . . . One-and-a-half that is. First I'm goin' in to Seco on business: Be sure you keep old Dad Kane here. Don't let him leave on any excuse. Tell him I've gone to make arrangements for him to go back to open the mine. Keep him here till I get back. I want to find out all I can about old man Carr's finances. . . ."

"Huh. From all I hear he ain't got any. How'll you find out that?"

"I've got ways you never thought of. . . . Dustin grinned as a coyote grins at sight of game. "The really big thing for us just now is to make Kane show us exactly where his location is. It'd be right bright to have him disappear and then find out we don't know where he found the gold."

He poured himself another drink and picked up his hat.

"I'll be on my way," he said. "Be sure you ride hard on Kane."

Spike watched the departing car and when its following dust-cloud was swallowed up turned away to the kitchen.

He was under no illusions as to what Dustin meant when he said that Kane must disappear. During the many years of their partnership he had seen some curious things. Sometimes he thought that the very partnership was the only reason for their mutual safety. Either could hang the other by too much talk. He knew Dustin was cautious and ruthless and he knew suddenly that his "find" of old man Kane would put them both beyond any further need of more money. Dustin was right.

"He'll probably bring home the bacon," he muttered. "Even if he has to kill somebody else's hog to get it."

That was exactly what Sam Dustin proposed to do. He knew that the conscienceless suit over Soda Springs had cost Carr more than he had. He knew that the Broken Spur depredations on the herds of the Hour-glass and put that ranch in the red. He was sure that Joe Carr must owe a lot of money and he meant to find out to whom he owed it. Dustin believed in the strong hand and he knew that Solomon was right when he said: "The borrower is servant to the lender." It was dark when he parked his car before the sheet-iron-fronted saloon in Seco. He strode down the main street, turned off at a dark alley and stopped at a little frame bungalow set well back in a clump of dusty Chinaberry trees. The door flew open at his knock and, almost instantly, an old woman holding a stinking kerosene lamp above her head, stood facing him.

"Evenin', Mis' Peters," he said civilly enough, "Sim in?"

"He went for the mail," said Mrs. Peters. "He ought to be back in a minute. Come in, Mis' Dustin. There comes Sim now," she added.

Something To Know

If you want to revive wilted lettuce or other salad greens, put them in a pan of ice water to which has been added a cupful of vinegar. Let them set for half an hour and they'll be quite crisp. Incidentally, if you wrap lettuce in a damp towel and stick the ends of the towel in a dish of water, it will keep fresh for days.

Practically every part of the cow, including the blood, is used in making aeroplanes.

Free Samples at Druggists of the Remarkable New Aid in the Prevention of Colds

Local Druggists Are Now Offering A Free Trial Of Vicks Va-tro-nol For Nose and Throat—Also Of Its Ideal Companion, Vicks VapoRub

NEW PREVENTION IDEA

This Discovery Introduces Unique Vicks Plan For Better Colds-Control

HOW VICKS PLAN WORKS

Following years of research on the problem of colds, Vicks Chemists have developed a new aid in preventing colds—Vicks Va-tro-nol, for nose and throat. This new Vicks preparation is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds.

These two Vicks preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The helpfulness of the Plan in reducing the number and duration of colds has been clinically tested by physicians. (Full details of the Plan are in each package of Vicks Va-tro-nol and of Vicks VapoRub.)

Briefly, here is how Vicks Plan works:

To Help Prevent Colds Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition that you know is apt to be followed by a cold, such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crows, stuffy ill-ventilated places—sudden changes in temperature—excesses in living such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance.

To Help Shorten a Cold If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the night, VapoRub attacks the cold direct—two ways at once—by stimulation, direct through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—and by inhalation of its medicated vapors, direct to the inflamed air-passages. This long-continued double action loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, eases difficult breathing, and helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Va-tro-nol every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children.

Trial Packages Free

Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Va-tro-nol and VapoRub—also folder telling how these twin aids to feller colds and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

Finger Prints Identify Murphy as American With a Bad Record

Local Suspect Recently Out of American "Pen"—Has Had 23 Convictions

Constable J. M. Winkler made no mistake when his suspicion rested upon one transient whom he arrested following the blowing of the safe at the office of the Hanna Herald. Constable Winkler picked up James Murphy, who was making tracks for the C.N.R. yards with a view to leaving town. Murphy was hailed before the court last week on a charge of vagrancy. Magistrate Roberts remanded the man for seven days at Drumheller. After spending two days in the R.C.M.P. cells at that point, Murphy was brought back to Hanna because of the fact that Drumheller jail cannot accommodate remanded cases. Murphy was thereupon charged with an infraction of the railway act and sentenced to ten days.

While all this was going on, R.C.M.P. officers, under Sergeant Skelton, checked up the scene of the Herald safe cracking and attempted to secure photographs of finger prints which night couple Murphy with the robbery. At the same time Murphy was "mugged" and his finger prints taken. After comparing Murphy's finger prints with the records at the criminal police bureau, Ottawa, it has been established that James Murphy is an American with a very bad criminal record. Police state that he is only recently out of penitentiary across the line and that he has served 15 years on twenty-three convictions ranging from safe blowing and armed robbery down to petty theft. Although Murphy's past record has been established, it is unlikely that any attempt will be made to link him with last week's local crime.—Hanna Herald

With grades already badly damaged by frost and rain, threshing operations in the Peace River areas have been further hindered by a blanket of snow covering most of the area to depths of six and ten inches. ### The Woman Reader

WOMAN'S PART

Among ancient peoples, man was the hunter and the warrior; woman the keeper of the children and the homely or what stood for a home in those early days.

To woman fell the task of caring for the game which her man took in the chase. It was she who later scratched the earth and planted in it seed, and roots, cultivated them, watched and watered them, and later gathered in her harvest.

Woman was the butcher. She dressed the meat and preserved it, jerking it from the bone and hanging it up to dry. She was the miller crushing the grains by rolling them between stones, as on rolls milled on a mashing board, except that the "molding board" and the rolling pin were stones. It was she who dried the berries and kept them out for out-of-season delicacies.

After ages of gnawing bones like a dog, woman began to hunt up fit stones and build herself an oven. In it she baked meats and breads for her family.

Her hands laid hold of such raw material as she found about her. From clay and pebbles she fashioned dishes. From skins and feathers, she made garments. From twigs and branches, she built her shelter and bed. From grasses and fibrous weeds, she made many useful things.

Her busy fingers rubbed and scraped and soaked and molded and mixed and dyed and spun and wove and sewed and knitted, all to one purpose—the keeping of a home and the making of her family comfortable. Machinery has changed the mode of woman's work, but not the motive.

On Oct. 25 Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kine motored to Drumheller spending the week end at the Mitchell home also with Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Cochrane. They returned home Oct. 30.

Wedding Bells

Mrs. W. W. Isbister is in receipt of a letter, bearing the news of the marriage, on Sept. 14th, of Miss Florence Connell to Mr. B. B. Crawford, of Creston B. C. The ceremony which united the happy young couple, took place at "the Manse," after which a sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, to the relatives and friends.

The dinner table was centered by a lovely three tier wedding cake, while skilfully arranged pink and white streamers and autumn leaves, lent a festive air to the house.

The brides gown was of egg-shell crepe trimmed with brown. She wore hat, gloves and shoes of brown and carried a beautiful bouquet of white asters.

A shower arranged by the Ladies Aid and the Young People open to both ladies and gentlemen was held in the town hall, which was beautifully decorated with mauve and gold streamers and autumn leaves.

After many games had been played the bride's Sunday School Class brought in armfuls of gifts and were followed by two ladies wheeling a huge pasteboard cake, the layers of which, when opened were found to contain more gifts. Gifts ranging from the necessary "rolling pin" to a beautiful floor rug were received and deeply appreciated by the young couple. Several choruses were sung by the girls of Miss Connell's Sunday School Class.

"Flurence", with her parents and brothers, resided for a number of years at Chinook; where she was an active and interested member of the Sunday school and the C. G. I. S.

We tender to the young couple our most sincere wishes for their happiness and success. Mr and Mrs Crawford have taken up residence at Creston B. C.
